

Reviews & Accolades

COLORADO WHISKEY 42%

WINE ENTHUSIAST

Kara Newman, September 2014

---

90 Points

This high-rye Bourbon (which oddly, doesn't say "Bourbon" on the label though it meets the basic criteria) is bold and spicy, and plays well in cocktail combinations. A big oak and vanilla mix finishes with clove, dried cherry, and a surprising, bright touch of lemon peel. It's not distilled in Colorado, but is cut with Rocky Mountain water.

DRINKSBIZ MAGAZINE

Bourbon & Whiskey Report, April / May 2018

---

Tincup whiskey is branded as a "classic American whiskey". It is made from two whiskeys, each aged in #3 charred oak barrels for a minimum of four years: "High rye" bourbon, distilled and aged in Indiana, is blended with a small amount of Colorado single malt whiskey. These are then cut with Rocky Mountain water. Tincup has a bourbon-style profile with a bold and spicy finish.